Salatino Has High Praise for Community Residents

Deloris Brown, Chairperson of the Committee for the Improvement of the Third District, and H. B. (Jerry) Hanna, Legal Counsel to the Governor listened as Representative Jim Salatino comments at the ground-breaking ceremonies for the South 16th and K Community Center.

During recent dedication ceremonies of the South 16th and K Community Center, Representative Jim Salatino singled out the community's residents for special praise. Salatino said, "Because of the significant role the neighborhood played, the Center has become a reality."

The Center, which will serve as both a recreational and social service area for the community, is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1978. It will contain a swimming pool, a gym, and other activity rooms as well as provide a home for such agencies as the Youth Service Bureau and the Hilltop Multi-Purpose Center.

The project, originally proposed by the Model Cities program, has since been supervised by Tacoma's Community Development Department and the Committee for the Imporvement of the Third District.

Hugh Wells Named to Affirmative Action Committee

The Tacoma City Council recently approved the appointment of Hugh Wells to be representative at large for the Mayor with the City's Affirmative Action Evaluation Committee. The appointment will be effective through May 1, 1978. The purpose of the committee is to take a look at the City's affirmative action plan and make recommendations on it's merit.

Mr. Wells is presently employed with the Tacoma Urban League, and is an active member of the Tacoma Black Forum, Panel for Family Living, NAACP, Hilltop Jaycees and the Urban League. He is a 36 year old resident of Tacoma for five years, native of Texas, and claims his previous home as Indianapolis, Indiana.

POLITICS IN THE BLACK COMMUNITY

By: Gregory Johnson

The citizens of this county face several economic and political problems. Black people presently and in the past have suffered greatly as a result of these problems. We have learned in the past that elected officials will respond to the needs of those who are racially and economically oppressed only when organized mass pressure is brought to bear. Nothing is gained without struggle. The increased black participation in the traditional two party system and continued grass-roots community organizing is providing some of the necessary pressure to find solutions to the issues that affect all black people.

The black voter has had an increasing influence on the past eight presidential elections. This is extremely important because in heavily populated black states and congressional districts the black vote can be descisive. As was the case in the last presidential election, where a shift in the black vote in a few key states could have meant that Gerald Ford would have been elected president. At a time when traditional voting blocks (labor, religion, age, etc.) are breaking up around ideological questions, blacks, at least, on the national level were able to elect a president by giving 90% of their vote to Jimmy Carter. Nearly every victorious presidential candidate since 1936 has carried the Black vote in northern central cities. A short time ago our vote was illegally suppressed by racist voter registration laws and rendered powerless by dividing the legislative districts within the Black community. It took tremendous efforts by dedicated brothers and sisters working on voter registration projects across the country to generate enthusiasm for Black voting potential. The increased power of the Black vote in major cities across the country has been enhanced as a result of white flight from the central city. Some encouraging evidence of this can be seen in the increased number of Black elected officials nation-wide. Seattle was fortunate to host a regional conference for black elected officials recently, which stirred local interest in Black voter potential. As we continue to grow as a community and a nation we face such important domestic issues as; redlining in our neighborhoods, desegregating our schools, adequate health care, energy conservation and employment opportunities. Already the influence of the Black vote has contributed greatly to the development of the United States foreign policy towards Africa. The endorsement of Black majority rule for South Africa by the United States is one example.

Faced with campaign promises and paid political advertisments one might ask, where do we go from here? We must now meet the challenge of mobilizing a sophisticated black electorate which can set aside arguments that divide us in our struggle for human equality. A renewed dedication and participation in the political process is needed if we are to help lead any movement that speaks to freeing up the human potential that exists in our communities. Black votes and black politics must be identified with bringing about meaningful social change. When candidates and political aspirants appeal to the Black community for supoort, it must be understood that the Black vote represents a new emphasis on the struggle for human liberties and opportunities. The newly expressed voting power of the Black community will undoubtly become the object of future candidates and political campaigns. It is important for black Americans to demand more than just black faces in politics, it is time for Black people to demand some "black accountability".

WRITER POINTS UP PLIGHT OF PURDY INMATE

Dear Editor:

This is to inform your readers of the plight of a young Black woman who has been serving an indefinite sentence in Washington State's Penitentiary for Women (Purdy Treatment Center for Women) since mid-1973 after she killed her husband in self-defense.

On January 31 of that year Gloria Timmons was a severely battered wife. She had twice been hsopitalized because of attacks by her husband and raped and assaulted by him before she took his life with a .22 pistol as he approached her with a screw driver in a bar.

Gloria, for her part, regrets the tradegy. She meant to stop him but not to kill him. Her pistol was loaded with just one bullet.

But the facts which indicated that Gloria acted in self-defense did not result in a quick dismissal of the case or the sort of 30 day sentence that the rich, white and famous might receive.

Gloria pleaded guilty to manslaughter as the result of plea bargaining and ended up with a 20 year maximum (but no minimum) sentence.

Finally, after the vissitudes of four years, the parole board will set a minimum sentence in late June.

We are urging people to write to Governor Dixie Lee Ray at the State Capitol, Olympia, WA 98501 and a copy to the Washington State Board of Prison Terms and Parole at the Capitol Center Building, Olympia, WA, demanding that all charges against Gloria be dropped and that she be freed now.

If possible copies and/or letters of support sent to Gloria F. Timmons, P.O. Box 17, Gig Harbor, WA 98335.

As Gloria says: "I was 19 when I went in and I'm 24 now. It seems like 4 years is enough."

Single-Family Housing To Grow Less Popular

NEW YORK (AP) — America's single-family housing boom will begin to wane within the next two years as other types of construction begin to expand, a national bankers' convention was told Tuesday.

Housing, and especially single-family housing, is "a notoriously cyclical building market" which "typically begins to fade once the rest of the economy heats up," said George A. Christie, chief economist of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co.

The slack in construction typically is taken up by multifamily and commercial building in a "very normal recovery pattern for the construction markets," Christie told reporters before addressing the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, an organization of bankers, real estate investors and consultants.

The National Association of Home Builders is forecasting 1.4 million single-family housing starts this year, up from 1.16 million in 1976 and surpassing the record of 1.3 million starts in the prerecession year of 1972.

But Christie, whose company is a leading compiler of data on the construction business, said he expects the total to be only about 1.3 million this year, with a 100,000 to 200,000-unit drop in 1978.

Seattle Golfer Brings Home the Bacon from Northern Calif. Tourney

By Madison King

Fitzgerald Beaver, Seattle amateur golfer, was a successful participant in the Northern California WSGA Tournament last weekend. The play was held at the Franklin Canyon Championship Course. The tees were all the way back and the course played like a real championship course.

I talked to Beaver before he teed off Saturday. He stated that he was in good shape and felt that it was just about his time to get in a good round. And he got in a good first 9 after a poor start. He double bogeyed 3, 4 and 5, but fought back with a birdie on 7 and 9 to finish 3 over par.

Beaver was playing out of Sacramento, California because he belongs to the Sacramento club. He made the club team and came in second. He received a nice trophy and more skins than he could count.

Beaver said he is ready for Palm Springs, Lake Tahoe, Los Angeles and San Francisco. These will be played before he plays in the East Side and Fir State tourneys. I will be traveling with Beaver this year, so I will be reporting on how he is doing.
